

Self-reliance and the revival of Pan-Africanism

Guled

Aziz Salmone Fall

Feb 10, 2011

Group for Research and Initiative for the Liberation of Africa, talks about the potential of cooperation between countries of the South and the revival of Pan-Africanism. He refers back to the Bamako Appeal and calls for a true, genuine integration between African countries including self-reliant development, agrarian reform, a renewal of the tri-continental approach and the need to work with radical forces from below to transform society. Fall says it is necessary to go beyond the comprador regimes that have failed in Tunisia and Egypt and to put in place a monitoring body to stop the ongoing pillage of resources across the African continent.

BROUGHT TO YOU BY PAMBAZUKA NEWS AND WORLD DEVELOPMENT MOVEMENT

* Interview conducted by Zahra Moloo, an independent journalist from Kenya, currently based in London, UK.

* Please send comments to editor@pambazuka.org or comment online at Pambazuka News.

